Future of Work

PRISM – An Enterprise Fabric

The Future of Work is characterized by a shift towards digital employee experience, powered by workflow automation and integration with enterprise IT systems and delivering a uniform experience.

Importance of Digital Employee Experience in the Future of Work

The next evolution of employee engagement is the digital employee experience. Digital employee experience is powered by workflow automation and integration with enterprise IT systems.

Digital employee experience encompasses a wide range of initiatives, including employee self-service portals, mobile apps, chatbots, and virtual assistants. These initiatives enable employees to access the information they need, when needed, and from any device.

Business Challenges

A successful employee experience in the digital era has many challenges that foster employee satisfaction, productivity, and loyalty. In summary, the following are the key aspects that affect the employee experience in their workplace.

The disconnected experience that makes it difficult to consume enterprise services.

Process ambiguity which isolates enterprise functions.

Siloed systems due to disintegrated platforms, tools, and applications.

Employee productivity loss yields low satisfaction and less stickiness.

Solution

Our solution addresses the four pillars of the digital employee experience, which centralizes all workplace, employee, and technology aspects in an exceptional way. The key attributes of the individual pillars of Future of Work make the journey map as shown below.

Prism Fabric
